

Becommoning: A Framework for the Initiation of New Commons

Charging the Commons is a 2-year research project that explores how a Situated-design approach can be employed to articulate the values of resource communities. The project examines how these values can be translated into designs for the organization of an urban commons. To learn more about our research outputs, visit chargingthecommons.nl or send an e-mail to: z.tomor@hva.nl